Dear Mayor Revilla:

Greetings of wellness!

The year 2023 marked the 10th year of implementing the Laro't Saya Program – a nationwide sports-for-all advocacy of the government anchored on the principle of “play and learn sports for free.”

Since its launch in January 2013, the program has benefited (nationwide) almost 2,000,000 children, parents, and senior citizens who are looking forward to a weekend to access free sports training and some fun-filled physical fitness activities.

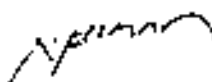

Laro't Saya creates a culture of lifelong healthy habits of the Filipino family. Thus, we believe that engagement in sports emanates from the family's support system for children to get into physical activities and eventually excel in their chosen sports.

On behalf of the children, parents, and senior citizens from your locality that will benefit from this advocacy, may we offer a partnership in implementing the Laro't Saya Program in your locality.

Dr. Lauro Domingo Jr., LSP Manager and PSC Division Chief, will coordinate with your office regarding this correspondence. For inquiries, he may be reached at lauro.domingo@psc.gov.ph or (0917) 1144290.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

RICHARD E. BACHMANN

RULE 5 SPORTS-FOR-ALL PRINCIPLES

Section 1. General Concept

The LSP Program adopts the principles of sports-for-all: to develop and sustain the family and Senior Citizen's interests in sports practice and the promotion of health and social benefits of engaging in an active lifestyle.

Section 2. Principles

The Program affirms that sport is a human right for all individuals, regardless of race, age, social class, and gender. It offers sports activities that can be appreciated and practiced by children and Senior Citizens until they make sports a continuing and serious endeavor. The Program bespeaks of the following principles:

- (a) Sports are fun, easy, and affordable
LSP sports are activities that keep the family, and Senior Citizens fit. It can be fun, easy, and affordable. Involvement in these activities is free and accessible.
- (b) Mass-based
Highly participatory in nature, the Program is designed to involve the greatest number of people (the individual, the family, and the community) in a broad range of sporting activities. These are activities that lead to sports appreciation towards early athletic specialization.
- (c) Character-building
The Program carries and develops a mindset that being fit is not just about speed and stamina. It is also about determination, discipline, and dedication. These attributes make for mental toughness and help people become physically and psychologically ready to withstand challenges in life. These are sporting activities that develop positive values and reasonable discernment necessary to make one happy and productive.
- (d) Culture of lifelong healthy habits
Medals, honors, and the glamour of victories have no bearing on the Program. The focus here is on mass participation in a healthy lifestyle. It is about creating a culture of lifelong healthy habits.

RULE 6 THE PROGRAM CORE ELEMENTS

Section 1. Program Essence

The essence of the LSP Program is about the family and Senior Citizens in play and the park as its playground. It considers the Filipino family as the best agent for change. Admirable traits and character, including the full development of a person, take their roots from the family. Engagement in sports emanates from the Filipino family's support system for children to get into physical activities.

Section 2. Core Elements

The Program endeavors to bring sports to the people and places where people have fun with families and friends, such as public parks. Thus, the three (3) core elements of this program are:

(a) Family

The primary and most important unit of Philippine society, a springboard to the realization of the PSC's mandate to engage the greatest number of people in sports and play.

(b) Parks

Parks are spaces in a community, idle or developed, where people can freely recreate, spend leisure and conduct collective sporting activities. These are the best and most accessible venues for a family to re-new self and relations and the most conducive places to draw a crowd. Sports and parks are almost synonymous in that parks are truly inviting for sports and recreational activities, in the same manner that sports activities of the family are best held in the parks.

(c) Play

The builder of a family, play is also a toolkit to build kinship and a healthy lifestyle. It is a medium to break social and emotional gaps among family members in an enjoyable and entertaining fashion.

RULE 7 VISION STATEMENT

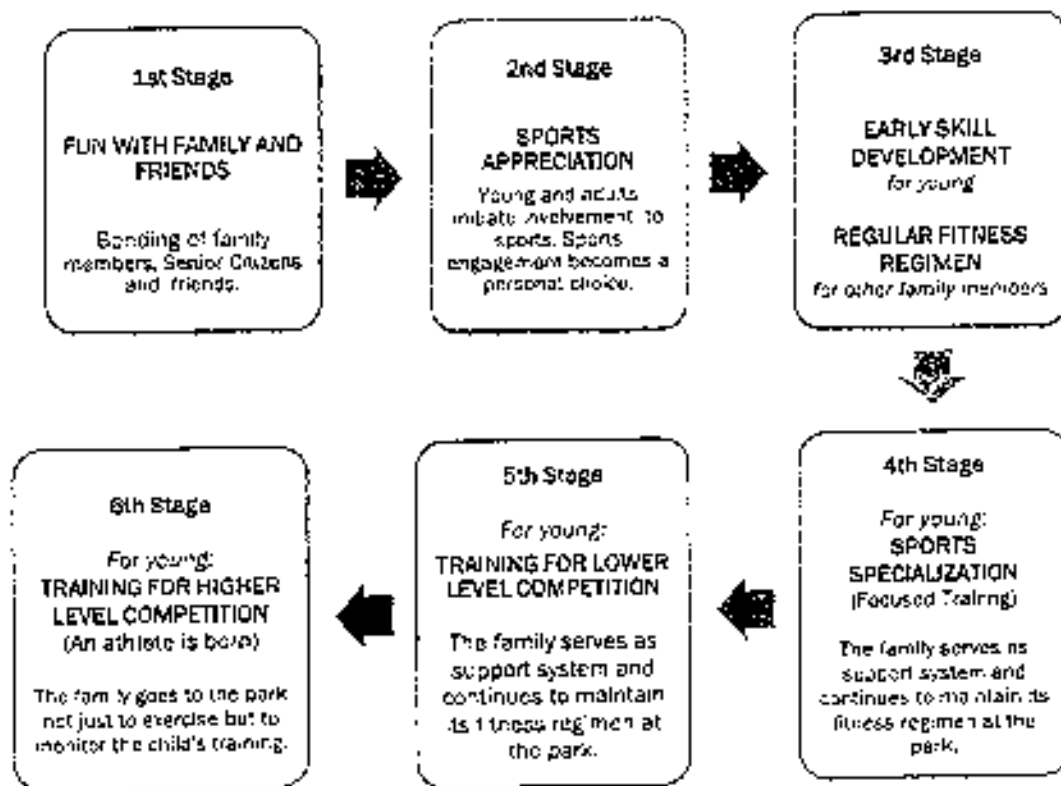

Laro't Saya Sa Parke shall set the grounds for a nationwide phenomenon where every Filipino Family plays together at least one sport in the most adjacent parks within its community.

Through this Program, parks will become the ultimate grounds from which every family member values and practices "togetherness" in sports and life.

RULE 8
LSP DEVELOPMENT FRAMEWORK

The family plays a critical role in the development of an athlete. A true athlete can be born only when there is a powerful and deliberate support system from family and peers. A true athlete is one who not only excels in a sport skill but is also imbued with the kind of character, values, and discipline that can be developed within the family and peers.

Stage 1. The LSP Program, using the family as its agent for change, introduces sports as fun and leisure. Thus, children and senior citizens brought to the park to enjoy sports also slowly imbibe a feeling of pleasure and enjoyment.

Stage 2. It is this fun and amusement of playing together with their family that they gradually appreciate the sports. This led to a personal choice to return to the park to learn and play sports with my parents.

Stage 3. Regularity at the park to play encourages early skill development. As young choose a particular sport of his interest, they gradually develop specific sports skills. The parents/adults at this period likewise develop a detailed fitness regimen. While the child plays the sport of his choice more seriously, the adult members of the family choose to stay physically fit by adopting a regular exercise habit.

Stage 4. Repetitions and regularity of going to the park to learn basic skills lead to the development of focused training. Here, an early specialization in a particular sport is up-and-coming.

Stage 5. As the young keep practicing their sport, they are ready to compete in school or community intramurals. By this stage, the young has accumulated a certain degree of confidence in the sport of their choice, and they are up for exciting and friendly competitions at the base level. The parent/adult member of the family who was by their side during the early stages understands a better perspective of the child athlete. Thus, emotional and social support and encouragement are sustained by the family. A junior athlete is born.

Stage 6. The junior athlete continues to go to the park for free training. The family continues to go to the park to exercise and monitor the child's activity. Special handling by PSC shall be instituted at this stage to ready the young for a higher level of training. The park shall continue to be the venue of the junior athlete's regular exercise. At the same time, they get into a particular talent identification process/program that PSC may be established in coordination with the concerned NSA. An athletic talent may be discovered at this phase.

RULE 9 GOALS AND TARGETS

Section 1. The Playing Phenomenon

The LSP Program aspires to achieve a playing phenomenon across the Philippines:

- (a) Families play sports together.
- (b) Idle lands and parks become a playing ground for all ages.
- (c) Every child in a community play at least one sport and does this regularly with family or peers.
- (d) Every parent and adult becomes a role model in sports involvement, whether as part of a cheering crowd, a patron, a volunteer organizer, or a player.
- (e) Leaders and youth organizations in local government units give premium importance to sporting activities.

- (b) Locality monitors and identifies emerging athletic talents.

RULE 10 SPORTS AND RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES

- | | |
|--------------|-----------------|
| 1. Aerobics | 6. Karatedo |
